

Written by Batyah Ha Melek and Jays the Ace

WISDOM TREE ACADEMY

Learning From Dad

Little Apprentice

BOOK ONE

Real Skills for Everyday Life

Practical lessons. real-life skills. and everyday wisdom.

Written by Batyah Ha Melek and Jays the Ace

THE DAD SCHOOL PROMISE

Ask. Learn. Try. Try again. Safely.

Nobody begins knowing everything. Useful skills grow through patience, shared effort and the courage to ask for help.

Learning From Dad

BOOK ONE

Real Skills for Everyday Life

Written by Batyah Ha Melek and Jays the Ace

Father of Lights Wisdom • Wisdom Tree Academy

An educational arm of Pleroma Legacy Group

fatheroflightswisdom.com

© 2026 Batyah Ha Melek and Jays the Ace. All rights reserved.

First paid digital edition • September 2026

PERSONAL HOUSEHOLD-USE LICENCE

This purchase is licensed to one household. You may print activity pages for children in your household. Please do not share, upload, redistribute or resell this file.

A NOTE FOR GROWN-UPS

Use age-appropriate adult supervision for tools, cooking, outdoor work and every practical activity. Adapt each lesson to your child's needs, abilities and local safety guidance.

WELCOME TO DAD SCHOOL

Small lessons. Real-life confidence.

Fifteen stories to read, laugh about and put into practice together.

FOR THE GROWN-UPS

Read at your child's pace. Pause for questions and enjoy the jokes. You can share these stories with Dad, Mum, a grandparent or another trusted adult.

After each chapter, choose one small Little Apprentice Challenge. There is no race to finish the book and no need to master a skill in one day.

Meet the crew

Dad — a patient teacher, practical problem-solver and occasional maker of spectacular mistakes.

Ben — thoughtful, curious and learning to trust his growing abilities.

Max — enthusiastic, inventive and rarely short of an unexpected idea.

Trevor — the family dog, loyal companion and enthusiastic collector of other people's belongings.

LEARN TOGETHER, SAFELY

The stories introduce skills; practical activities need an adult's judgement and supervision. Adults choose age-appropriate tasks and handle hazardous equipment.

For tasks involving tools, heat, electricity, vehicles or first aid, use suitable instruction and current local guidance. Knowing when to stop and ask is part of the lesson.

YOUR NEXT ADVENTURE

Contents

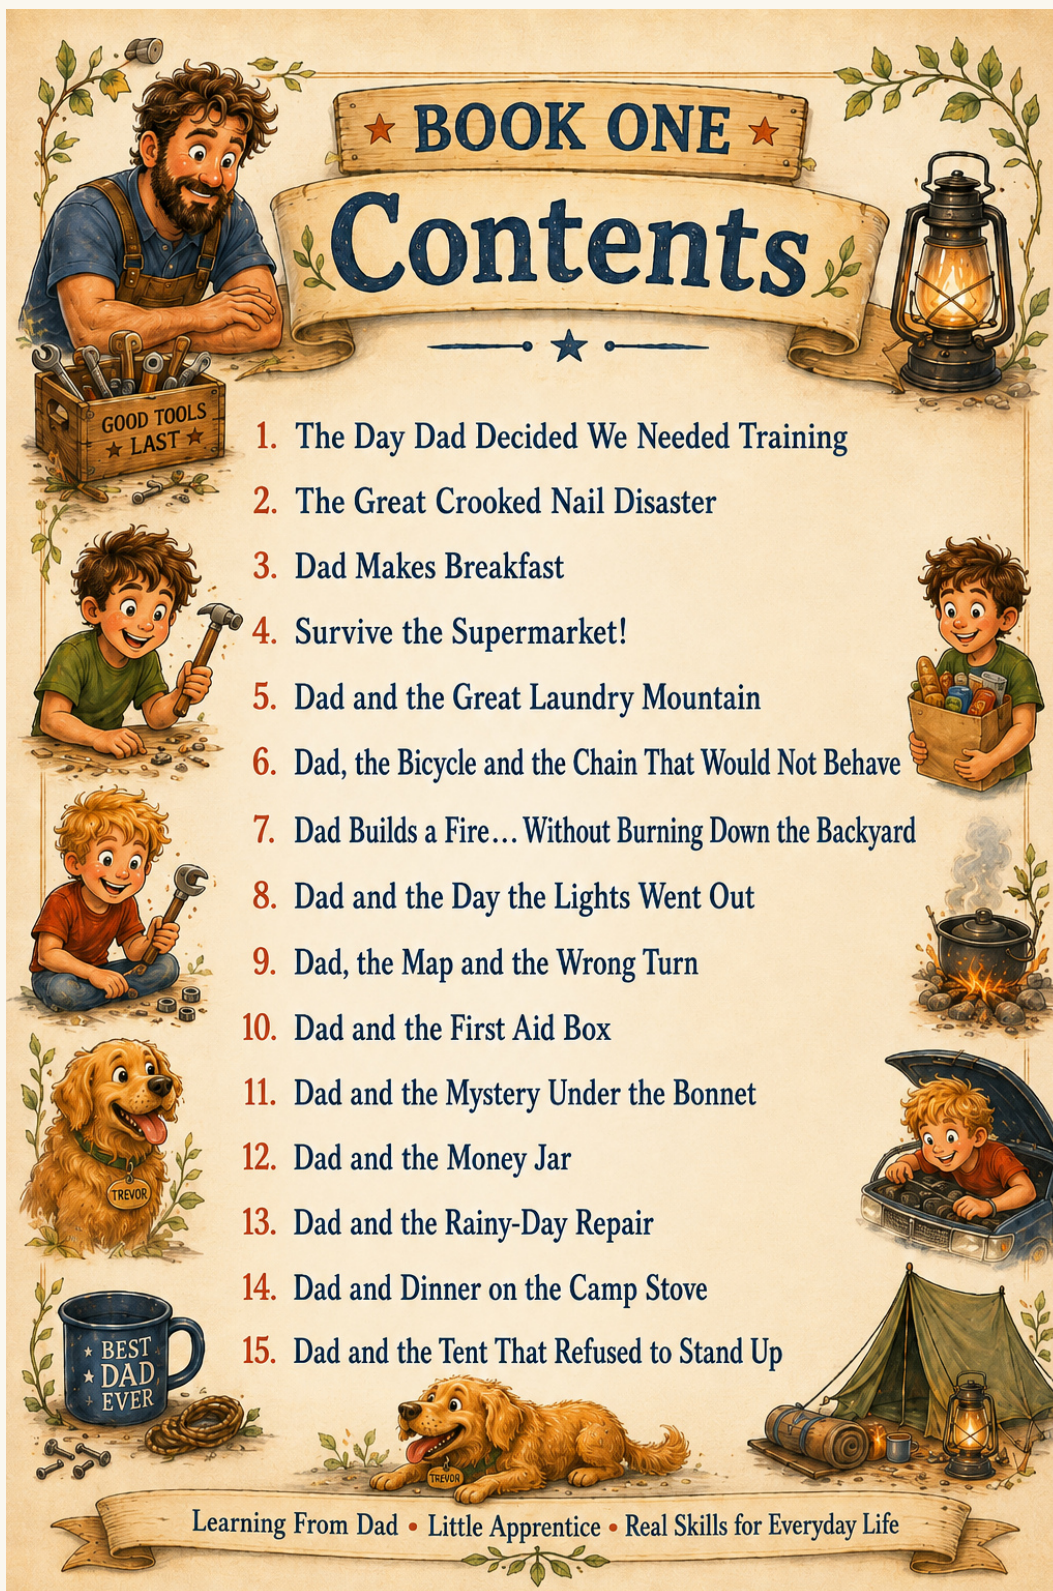

Tap a chapter title to jump to its opening page.

Welcome to Dad School	3
1. The Day Dad Decided We Needed Training	7
2. The Great Crooked Nail Disaster	26
3. Dad Makes Breakfast	43
4. Survive the Supermarket!	62
5. Dad and the Great Laundry Mountain	78
6. Dad, the Bicycle and the Chain That Would Not Behave	88
7. Dad Builds a Fire... Without Burning Down the Backyard	95
8. Dad and the Day the Lights Went Out	108
9. Dad, the Map and the Wrong Turn	121
10. Dad and the First Aid Box	134
11. Dad and the Mystery Under the Bonnet	146
12. Dad and the Money Jar	161
13. Dad and the Rainy-Day Repair	175
14. Dad and Dinner on the Camp Stove	189
15. Dad and the Tent That Refused to Stand Up	198
Skills & Lesson Index	213
Continue the Journey	214

THE ILLUSTRATED ADVENTURE MAP

Your Adventure Map

Fifteen stories. Useful skills. A little adventure in every lesson.

Choose your next adventure using the clickable contents page.

A WORLD OF USEFUL THINGS TO LEARN

Welcome to Dad School

Practical lessons, shared adventures and the confidence to keep trying.

Ask • Learn • Try • Try Again • Safely

CHAPTER 01

The Day Dad Decided We Needed Training

Saturday morning began with one muddy shoe... and one very suspicious dog.

CHAPTER 1

The Day Dad Decided We Needed Training

Saturday morning began with a mystery.

Dad stood in the middle of the hallway holding one muddy shoe.

He stared at it.
Then he stared at the boys.
Then he stared at the shoe again.

"Gentlemen," Dad said very seriously, "we have a situation."

Ben looked up from the floor.
"What situation?"

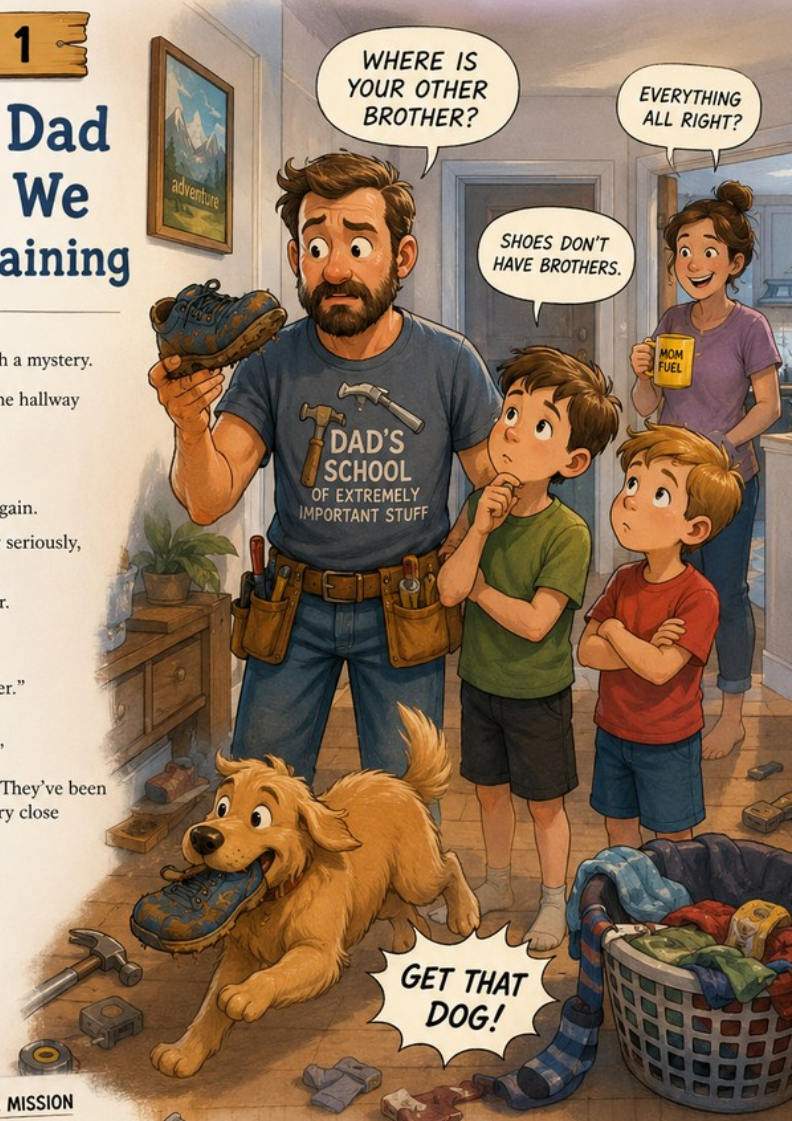

Dad held up the shoe.
"This shoe has lost its brother."

Max frowned.
"Shoes don't have brothers."

"This one does," Dad said. "They've been together for three years. Very close relationship."

Max giggled.

Dad began searching.
He looked under the couch.
Nothing.
Behind the door.
Nothing.
Inside the laundry basket.
Nothing.

WHERE IS YOUR OTHER BROTHER?

EVERYTHING ALL RIGHT?

SHOES DON'T HAVE BROTHERS.

GET THAT DOG!

LITTLE APPRENTICE MISSION

Can you help Dad?
Find these hidden in the picture:

Hammer

Sock

Screwdriver

Dog Bone

Tape Measure

RULE NUMBER ONE

DAD DOESN'T KNOW EVERYTHING.

If he doesn't know something...

?
ASK SOMEONE.

OR

LEARN.

OR

GOOGLE IT.

ARE YOU READY TO BECOME A LITTLE APPRENTICE?
ADVENTURES, LESSONS AND LAUGHS AWAIT!

Read the story. Talk it through. Try one small skill together.

Saturday morning began with a mystery.

Dad stood in the middle of the hallway holding one muddy shoe.

He stared at it.

Then he stared at the boys.

Then he stared at the shoe again.

“Gentlemen,” Dad said very seriously, “we have a situation.”

Ben looked up from the floor.

“What situation?”

Dad held the shoe in the air.

“This shoe has lost its brother.”

Max frowned.

“Shoes don’t have brothers.”

“This one does,” Dad said. “They’ve been together for three years. Very close relationship.”

Max giggled.

Dad began searching.

He looked under the couch.

Nothing.

Behind the door.

Nothing.

Inside the laundry basket.

Nothing.

He lifted one of the couch cushions.

Two pencils.

A spoon.

Three LEGO bricks.

Something that might once have been a cracker.

And seventy cents.

Dad held up the coins.

“I’m retiring.”

“You can’t retire for seventy cents,” said Ben.

Dad sighed.

“So young, and already crushing my dreams.”

He put the coins on the table.

Then Dad stopped.

Very slowly, he looked at Ben.

Ben slowly looked back at Dad.

Dad pointed downward.

YOU'VE REACHED THE END OF THIS FREE PREVIEW

Keep Learning With Dad

Book One • Real Skills for Everyday Life

The complete paid edition includes 215 beautifully designed pages,
15 story-driven chapters, practical activities, discussion prompts,
Little Apprentice missions and a completion certificate.

Shared reading: ages 5–9 • Deeper independent discussion: ages 10–14

COMING SOON • NZ$19

fatheroflightswisdom.com

Father of Lights Wisdom • Wisdom Tree Academy
An educational arm of Pleroma Legacy Group